Welcome to Our Living Resource Room

I'm so excited to imagine what we'll build together.

We've already agreed that The Gathering Table™ isn't meant to be static. It's a living resource — a space that grows, adapts, and reflects the collective brilliance of the women who gather here.

Each of us brings immense value and authenticity. And from our conversations so far, a shared goal has emerged: to create a place where we can lean into the tips, strategies, and insights needed to pivot into our next chapter — whether that's a second act, a bold expansion, or a long-held vision finally ready to rise.

That's what we're building now. This isn't just a metaphor. It's a structure — shaped by stories, strategies, and shared truths.

When I created The Gathering Table™, I envisioned a space that didn't just hold presence but sparked movement. What's emerging is more than conversation — it's a blueprint for personal growth and collective momentum.

So here's what I see:

We're designing a building. Each room, each floor, reflects a part of who we are and what we need. As we continue, we'll furnish this space with wisdom, tools, and dreams .

I'm calling this evolving space Our Living Resource Room — and it will live on my site as both an archive and a launchpad. I'll curate what appears there with your care and consent. You're welcome to be named, remain anonymous, or allow your contribution to speak for itself.
